

Peppermint Creek patrons respond to Falsettos

If you want to feel everything there is to be felt, go see the PHENOMENAL cast of Falsettos at Peppermint Creek! Beautifully sung and gorgeously acted with amazing direction and a fucking killer set and costumes, this show goes at 100 the entire way through.

- A. Szabo

Peppermint Creek - Mazel tov and mazel tov on Falsettos. I loved it. My granddaughter loved it. You should be kvelling.....love Suellen (Jewish on my parent's side)

- S. Hozman

Falsettos was outstanding!

- G. Schultink

I attended your performance of Falsetto's on Saturday evening. I wanted to say thank you....and to apologize. The performances were absolutely exceptional. I attended at the invitation of some friends, and didn't really know what the musical was about. I was blown away by the singing, dancing, acting, and the incredible energy of the performers. I was NOT prepared for the ending. That's why I wanted to apologize. The performers deserved thunderous applause and standing ovations for each. Instead I, like many in the audience, was so devastated by the emotionally raw ending that I just sat there stunned and clapped mechanically. They deserved better, and it's bothered me since I left. Could you please let the performers know that if the applause at the end of the musical was not as overwhelming as it should have been, that it's because they were actually TOO good! Thank you.

- M. Larsen

Just a note to say how splendid we found last night's performance. We recently saw the Broadway revival on PBS and, without any overstatement, we found last night's performance to be more moving. It may be the skill of the performers or the intimacy of live theater in a small venue or both...whatever the reasons we were impressed with the all-around abilities of the cast and fully engaged emotionally. Kudos to everyone involved.

- A. Posner